A FRAGMENT.
The calm waters smiled, for the storm had passed by,
And the moon on their bright surface quivered;
When I saw, like a spectre, float silently by,
A wreck that the tempest had shivered.
A tempest, rudderless, chance-driven thing,
No canvass to steady its motion;
It lay like a bird with a storm-stricken wing,
Lured on the bosom of ocean.

Though it lay heaved in the swell of the moon-silvered sea,
The scene with no glory had crowned it;

And left me alone, in dark hull seemed to be
A blot on the radiance around it.

And in the world—when 'mid music and mirth

The crowd a bright dream is pursuing—

Glides with some marred scene of honor and worth,

That affliction hath rendered a ruin:

Some dread dispensation he looked not to meet,
Each hope that he clung to hath shattered,
And left him with life, when no longer 'tis sweet;
To the heart that its tempests have scattered.

He weeps not, his sorrow extorting;

Is he not a wreck?—and oh, where is the ray

His desolate path shall illuminate?

[From Burke's Heritage History of the Commons.]

EXECUTION OF LORD LOVAT.

When all was over, he was taken into custody, 1746, conveyed to London, and put upon his trial for high treason, before the House of Lords, on the 7th of March, 1747, convicted on the 10th of the same month, and decapitated on Tower Hill, the 9th of April following, in the 80th year of his age. His Lordship called no witnesses, but spoke at considerable length in defence, making a great merit of his exertions, in 1715, and grievous complaints of the disbanding of his company. From the moment of his condemnation, the unhappy nobleman behaved with dignified composure. When the warrant came down for his execution, he cheerfully exclaimed "God's will be done!" and taking the messenger by the hand, drank his health, and thanked him kindly for the favor, as he called it, assuring him he would not change places with any prince in Europe.— His last care was to write a letter to his son, replete with the tenderest sentiments. When the hour of execution approached, he conversed in a cheerful and easy tone with those about him, saying, he died "as a Highland chieftain should die—not in his bed." On mounting the steps of the scaffold, the vast crowd extorted an expression of surprise: "God save us? what a baste there is about taking off an old grey head; that cannot get up three steps without two men to support it." He then kneeled down to the block, and his head, at one blow was severed from his body.

A FORCED MARRIAGE.

Sir William Scott, third laird of Harden, being made prisoner by Sir Gideon Murray, of Elbink, in a bloody border feud, was condemned to lose his head, or to marry Agnes, a daughter of his captor, known by the descriptive appellation of "Muckle-mouthed Meg." To the latter alternative he consented, but not before he had ascended the scaffold; he lived with the lady, however, long and happily, and had by her eight children; from the eldest son sprung the present laird of Harden, (who is now claiming before the House of Lords the title of Polwarth,) and from the third lineally descended the late Sir Walter Scott.

A SINGULAR WAGER.

The date of Mr Pigott's (of Chetwynd) death is known by the remarkable wager recorded in Burrows' Reports, under the title of "The Earl of March versus Pigott," in which Lord Mansfield decided, that the impossibility of a contingency is no bar to its becoming the subject of a wager, provided the impossibility is unknown to both the parties at the time of laying it. The case was this: Mr R. Pigott and Mr Codrington agreed to run their father's lives one against the other. Sir William Codrington being a little turned of fifty; Mr Pigott, senior, upwards of seventy; but the latter was already dead. He died in Shropshire (150 miles from London), at two o'clock in the morning of the day on which the bet was made at Newmarket, after dinner.

This circumstance was at the time unknown to, and not even suspected by either party; but hence Mr Pigott was induced to resist payment of the five hundred guineas, for which the wager was laid; and Lord March, afterwards the well known Duke of Queensberry, who had taken Mr Codrington's bet, was compelled to bring his action, in which he succeeded.

HOTSPUR.

The celebrated battle of Shrewsbury was fought close to Mr Betton's estate at Great Berwick, in Shropshire, on the 20th of July, 1403; and on the evening preceding the battle, the renowned Henry Hotspur took possession of the house of William Betton, and made it his head-quarters, to the great loss and annoyance of the proprietor, who suffered much by the contributions levied upon him by that impetuous young nobleman and his followers.

An anecdote in accordance with the superstition of that period is connected with Hotspur's sojourn here. In the morning previous to the battle, his forces having moved about a mile from Great Berwick towards the scene of action, and Hotspur having placed himself at their head, he perceived that an engagement was unavoidable, on which he called for his favorite sword. His attendants informed him that it was left behind at Berwick, of which village it does not appear that he had till then learned the name. At these words he turned pale, and said, "I perceive that my plough is drawing to its last furrow; for a wizzard told me in Northumberland, that I should perish at Berwick, which I vainly interpreted of that town in the North." The result of the battle is matter of history, and universally known.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1835.

AN IMMENSE MEETING OF THE PEOPLE.

The meeting at FANEUIL HALL, yesterday afternoon, did honor to the character of Boston—it was one of the largest ever held here, embracing all classes of citizens; all political and sectarian prejudices were lost sight of in the general desire to manifest the almost universal sentiment of regret and indignation at the conduct of the Abolitionists, entertained by the people of this city. The officers of the meeting were as follows:—President, Hon. THEODORE LYMAN, Jr. (Mayor); Vice Presidents, AMOS LAWRENCE, JOHN C. WARREN, JOHN K. SIMPSON, PATRICK T. JACKSON, PLINY CUTLER, and HENRY LEE; Secretaries, D. D. BRODHEAD, STEPHEN FAIRBANKS, THOMAS B. CURTIS, and WILLIAM B. REYNOLDS.

After the meeting was organized by the choice of the above officers, RICHARD FLETCHER, Esq. introduced the Preamble and Resolutions, which will be found below, preceded by an eloquent and forcible speech. Mr. FLETCHER was followed by the Hon. PELEG SPRAGUE, late Senator in Congress from Maine, in a speech replete with sound argument and thrilling eloquence. After Mr. S. had concluded his able appeal to the immense concourse before him, the Hon. H. G. OTIS addressed the multitude in a very happy and successful manner—when Mr. OTIS finished his remarks, the question upon the acceptance of the Preamble and Resolutions was put, and carried by acclamation.

Whereas it has become matter of public notoriety, that projects are entertained by individuals in the Northern States of this Union, for effecting the immediate abolition of Slavery in our sister States, and that associations have been formed for this end; and there is cause to believe that the numbers and influence of these persons and societies have been greatly exaggerated by the apprehensions of many of our Southern brethren, and too probably by the sinister designs of others, who discern an occasion to promote in the South, disaffection to our happy Union!—And in consequence of the great and increasing excitement prevailing upon this subject, it becomes our duty to attempt to calm the minds and assure the confidence of the good people of these States, by expressing the sense of this community upon these procedures. We the citizens of Boston, here assembled, hereby make known our sentiments respecting this momentous subject, in the hope that the same may be favourably received and adopted by other communities and assemblies of our fellow citizens, so that a public and general sentiment may be demonstrated to exist in the North, adverse to these destructive projects. We hold the truth to be indisputable, that the condition of slavery finds no advocates among our citizens—our laws do not authorise it—our principles revolt against it—our citizens will not tolerate its existence among them. But although they hold these opinions they will not attempt to coerce their brethren in other States to conform to them. They know that Slavery with all its attendant evils was entailed upon the South by the Mother Country, and so firmly engrained upon their social system that the Revolution, which sundered their political ties to Great Britain, had no effect whatever in loosening those which bound the slave to his master in the Colonial State. This condition of things continued and existed at the adoption of the Federal Constitution. By that sacred compact, which constitutes the American Union one nation, the rights and jurisdiction of the Southern States were recognised and confirmed by all the rest. The actual state of their social relations was the basis of that compact, and we disclaim the right, and disbelieve the policy, and condemn the conduct of all efforts to impair or disintegrate the obligations thus imposed upon ourselves by our free act, with a full knowledge of their nature and bearing upon the political system; and by an adherence to which we have together prospered in peace and triumphed in war for nearly half a century.

Entertaining these views we solemnly protest against the principles and conduct of the few, who in their zeal would scatter among our Southern Brethren firebrands, arrows and death. We deplore the illusion of the Southern Court Journal speaks of the death of a Neapolitan Count as greatly lamented, being a distinguished player (gambler) of most games, and very popular in society. The Count was killed in a duel occasioned by a young lady.

An anti-abolition meeting was called for last evening, at Augusta, Maine. The Age states that a large number of abolition papers are sent to citizens of that town, and that they are generally sent back to the publishers.

of the Evening Star, has written a letter to Major Noah, in which he refutes the charge of plagiarism made by S. L. Fairfield against Bulwer, in reference to the original authorship of the Last Days of Pompeii.

The turn-outs at Patterson have resumed their work. The weekly wages which were thrown up by the strike amounted to $5,000, and as the strike lasted our weeks, the total amount of wages lost, was $20,000.

A crazy man, wearing the order of the Golden Fleece, obtained admission into the state room, at the late ball given by the Duke of Wellington, and created much astonishment until his character was ascertained.

The London Court Journal says that Reynolds' Journal of the cruise of the Potomac round the world, is a very instructive book.

Mr. Barlow, has, for want of sufficient patronage, relinquished his intention of giving a course Lectures on Phrenology in Portland.

Tennessee.—For Governor, as far as heard from, Carroll (Adm.) has 12,450 votes, Cannon (Opp.) 11,283, Humphreys (Opp.) 1804. By a slip from the Nashville Republican, we learn that the following gentlemen have been elected to Congress:

7th District—John Bell, without opposition.

8th " " Maury, 1050 maj. over Jetton.

6th " " Bailey Peyton, but little opposition.

9th " " James K. Polk, without opposition.

In three counties of the 11th district, Cave Johnson has 1949 votes, against 1457 for Turner.

Shields Co. in the 10th District, gives Porter 513, Kinnecannon 98.

Carroll Co. in the 12th District, gives Davy Crockett 162, Huntsman 650.

North Carolina.—Dr William Montgomery (J.) is elected to Congress in the 8th district, by a majority of over 200 Gen. Barringer, the late member.

J. A. Bryan (J.) has been re-elected from the 2d district by a considerable majority.

Missouri—From the partial returns received, it seems probable that Gen. Ashley (W.) is re-elected to Congress. In the case of the other member, the result is doubtful.

Indiana.—In the 2d District John Ewing (W.) the late member, has lost his election, being superseded by Davis (Van B.) Hannegan, Kinnard, Carr, and Lane, and Van Buren men, are believed to be re-elected. Also, McCarthy, who is said to be anti-Van Buren.—Dayton (Ohio) Journal, Aug. 11.

Mysterious.—A barrel was picked up in the East River yesterday morning and taken to Hicks' Dock, Brooklyn, where the bung was knocked out, but owing to the very unpleasant smell emitted, it was thrown into the water. It was soon, however, again taken up and towed to the slip near Tredwell and Thorne's stores, where the head was knocked out and the barrel found to contain the body of a negro man in a forward state of putrefaction. The coroner of Brooklyn, Mr. William Jennings, was called, who held an inquest on the body, and the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death from a cause to them unknown. When the barrel was opened a quantity of salt fell out of it. It was supposed that the body had been in the water a long time.—Mercantile.

Garrison, of the Boston Liberator, breaks forth in one of the most impassioned strains of oratory eloquence that we have for a long time heard or read. He says "all Pandemonium is let loose—the darkness of hell broods over the land—the wickedness of hell holds absolute sway, the blasphemy of hell resounds from every quarter"—(it certainly does from one quarter)—U. S. Gazette.

Resolved, That we disapprove of all associations instituted in the non-slave holding States with an intent to act within the slave holding States, upon the subject of slavery in those States, without their consent. For the purpose of securing freedom of individual thought and expression, they are needless—and they are inexpedient, inasmuch as they afford to those persons in the Southern States, whose object is to effect a dissolution of the Union, (if any such there may be now or hereafter) a pretext for the furtherance of their schemes.

Resolved, That all measures, the natural and direct tendency of which is to excite the slaves of the South to revolt, or of spreading among them a spirit of insubordination, are repugnant to the duties of the man and the citizen, and that where such measures become manifest by overt acts, which are recognizable by constitutional laws, we will aid by all the means in our power the support of those laws.

TURE BEAR'S OIL

may be had by the groce, dozen or single bottle, of A. BOYDEN, Hancock-st.

As in all cases, so especially in this, Venders, if they wish to secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely cautious not to sell an article of the Hair which tends to counteract either the hair or the skin.

The virtues of Bear's Oil have been too long tested to need any proof, and at this time no one can doubt of its being the very best article for strengthening and promoting the growth of the Hair. An honest prejudice against the use of Bear's Oil has long existed, arising from two causes—the improper method of purifying it, and the imposition upon the public of a spurious article. That this prejudice may be wholly removed, this article now offered is warranted the pure Oil, rendered more pleasant by the addition of a little perfume—and the possibility of its injuring the Hair is entirely precluded by the manner in which it has been purified. To prevent fraud, the genuine is enclosed in two wrappers, the inside one being signed Arnold Boyden.
